

First National Bank of Michigan - Holland, MI

“From the concept stage to the finished product, I was very impressed by the professionalism and attention to detail Nxtwall demonstrated throughout. The finished product is great and a much better alternative to the traditional cubicles you see in many offices.”

First National Bank - Holland Branch

Project Profile:

First National Bank of Michigan is a locally owned, community-minded bank with locations throughout Southwest Michigan. Since its inception in 2006, the bank has delivered exceptional financial solutions by working together with customers to build personal and lasting relationships. Deposits stay in West Michigan to fund loans, and decisions are made locally by experienced bankers dedicated to helping people, businesses and the community thrive. The new Holland branch of FNB of MI moved into a temporary location while their permanent location was under construction. They wanted a wall system that was not only architecturally appealing, but demountable and reconfigurable—which would make the transition into their new location much easier, and less time consuming.

Challenge:

Given the temporary nature of the new FNBM Holland office location, they needed a truly demountable wall system. One in which they could take with them when their permanent location was completed. To add to the challenge, the temporary space was an open office plan with exposed brick and uneven wood floors. The building also had both lighting & ventilation issues to overcome.

Solution:

NxtWall’s demountable wall systems were the obvious choice. By using both the functionality of the Flex Series and the sophisticated look of the View Series for an all glass conference room, FNBM with the help of SKP Design were able to achieve the look they wanted while staying within their budget. 3form translucent resin panels were chosen to accent the conference room while still admitting daylight through the space. NxtWall’s View Series was used to create a butt seamed glass wall conference room with standalone sliding doors that add to the office’s clean design. By using the freestanding approach, NxtWall’s products were also able to provide an efficient solution to the existing ventilation and lighting challenges. FNBM was very pleased with the overall look and functionality of NxtWall demountable wall system and were amazed at how fast the wall system was installed.
